Extracts from

An act to prevent the making, issuing, re-issuing and circulating certain description of notes and tickets in the nature of bank notes, and for other purposes.

Sect. 1. Be it enacted &c. That from and after the 1st day of May next, no bank or office of discount and deposit within this commonwealth shall make, issue, re-issue or circulate any bank note, promissory note, ticket or engagement of credit in the nature of a bank note, and no such bank shall receive any such notes or tickets or engagements other than those made or issued by itself or under its own immediate authority, and that for the mere purpose of cancelling or destroying the same forthwith, of a less denomination than one dollar, under the penalty of 25 dollars for each and every such note so made, issued, reissued, circulated, paid or received; to be recovered by any person or persons sueing for the same before any alderman or justice of the peace within this commonwealth, as debts under 100 dollars are by law recoverable.

Sect. 2. And be it further enacted &c. That from and after the passing of this act no incorporated body, public officer, association or partnership or private individual, other than such as have been expressly incorporated or established for the purpose of banking, shall make, issue, reissue or circulate any promissory note, ticket or engagement of credit in the nature of a bank note, of any denomination or amount whatsoever, other than such as have been issued by banks lawfully and expressly established.

Sect. 3. And be it further enacted, &c That the mode of proceeding against any bank or other corporation under this act shall be by summons served on the president, cashier or other chief officer, director or manager of such bank or corporation, and that where judgment shall be entered thereon, such judgment shall be as well against such bank or corporation as against such president, cashier, chief officer, manager or director or so many of them severally whereon such service shall have been made, and execution may thereupon forthwith issue as well against such bank or corporation, to be levied upon any debts due to them, as upon the shares of their capital stock or other property, real, personal or mixed, and against each such president, cashier, chief officer, director or manager, to be levied on his personal or real property, or if a sufficiency thereof cannot be found or plaintiff shall so require against their and each of their persons: to be proceeded on as is usual in the case of a capias ad satisfaciendum.

Sect. 4. And be it further enacted, &c. That for a second and each subsequent act of making, issuing, reissuing, circulating, passing or receiving, otherwise than is herein before excepted, any of the notes, tickets or engagements of credit aforesaid, the penalty or sum to be recovered shall be increased in an amount equal to the original penalty or sum mentioned in the first section of this act, but shall in no case exceed 50 dollars on an individual not a president, cashier, chief officer, director or manager of any bank or corporation, association or partnership, or 500 dollars in the case of any such officers and of such bank or corporation, association or partnership.

Sect. 5. And be it further enacted, &c. That whenever judgment shall have been had against any such bank or corporation in any two suits in the court of common pleas, or before two different justices of the peace, and certified copies or transcripts of such judgments filed with the prothonotary of the court of common pleas of the proper county & the same should have remained unpaid for three months, it shall be the duty of the attorney general or his deputy in such county to file in said court an information in the nature of a quo warranto, the process awarded on which shall be served by the sheriff or his deputy on the president, cashier or other chief officer or any director or manager of such bank or corporation.

Sect. 6. And be it further enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for any justice of the peace in every case where a second suit shall be brought against any incorporated road, bridge or canal company, after a judgment under this act against such company, to call to his aid any other justice of the peace of the same county, and they shall issue a precept directed to any constable commanding him to summon five disinterested and judicious freeholders named by said justice, to meet at a certain time and place in the said precept to be mentioned, of which meeting notice shall be given to the keeper of the gate or turnpike nearest thereto, and the said justices shall then and there by the oaths of affirmations of the said freeholders inquire whether such company or its officers or any of them, after a judgment lawfully rendered against such company or its officers or any of them under this act, shall have a second time made, issued, reissued, circulated, received or paid any note, ticket or engagement of credit, not authorised by law or contrary to the provisions of this act, and shall cause an inquisition to be made under their hands and seals and under the hands and seals of the said freeholders; and if the said company or its officers or any of them shall be found by the said inquisition to have a second time made, issued, reissued, circulated, received or paid any note, ticket or engagement of credit not authorised by law or contrary to the provisions of this act, they shall so certify and send one copy of the said iniquisition to each turnpike or gate keeper in the proper county, or in case of a bridge between two counties, to the toll gatherers (if such there be) at each end thereof; and from thenceforth all tolls which might otherwise have been demanded by reason of the use or passage on, through or over such road, canal or bridge, shall be suspended.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, &c. That so much of any act of assembly heretofore passed as deprives or prevents the holder of any note, ticket, or engagement of credit in the nature of a bank note, from recovering from any individual, bank or corporation, association or partnership, by whom or by any of whose offices or agents the same has been made, signed or issued, by reason of such note being made, signed or issued, without or in contradiction to law, be and the same is hereby repealed.

Sect. 8. And be it further ennacted, &c. That so much of the act entitled an act vesting in certain banking institutions within this commonwealth the power of issuing small notes, passed 28th Dec. 1814, as makes it lawful for all incorporated banks within this commonwealth, to issue notes of a smaller denomination than five dollars, be and the same is hereby re-enacted and continued in force until the 1st Oct. 1817; but that from and after the 1st day of October next, no incorporated bank within this commonwealth shall, under the penalties imposed by this act, make, issue or circulate any notes of a denomination less than five dollars.

Sect. 9. And be it further enacted, &c. That from and after the first day of May next, the several offices of discount and deposit within this commonwealth shall, on demand made, pay in the lawful currency of the United States; any note or ticket of such offices respectively or of the mother bank, when issued from such offices respectively, and on neglect or refusal to pay as aforesaid, shall be liable to the same penalties and may be proceeded against in the same nanner as is herein before provided, and any such note or ticket so as aforesaid issued, shall bear date at the office from which it issued.

FROM THE FEDERAL REPUBLICAN.

NEWS FROM SOUTH AMERICA.

By an arrival from Margaretta, which port was left on the 19th of Feb. last, we are politely furnished with the following very important intelligence:

On the 10th of February last, gen. Bolivar with less than 1000 men, defeated the army of the royalists consisting of 3000, leaving on the field of battle 1000 men, who were killed, wounded and taken prisoners, and one general officer slain. The particulars of this action are as follow: Gen. Bolivar made an attack on some of the outposts in the vicinity of Cumana on the 4th of Feb. and was defeated. He retreated towards Barcelona with a force amounting to 1900 men—the remainder were with gen. Arismendi, one or two hundred miles in the interior, and incapable of forming a junction at Cumana. Gen. Bolivar dispatched an express to Arismendi, with directions to join him at Barcelona, where he intended to risk an action with the royalists. In the mean time the fleet commanded by Admiral Brian, lay off the mouth of the harbor, ready for the reception of gen. Bolivar and his army, if the result of the anticipated action should prove unfavourable. On the 10th, general Bolivar gained the convent about two miles from Barcelona, where he lay concealed with his forces. About three o'clock, the royalists entered Barcelona, and began a dreadful massacre, supposing that general Bolivar had made good his retreat to the mouth of the river. At 10 o'clock P. M. gen. Bolivar entered the city about 1000 strong, secured the gates, and came upon the royalists at an unsuspecting moment. They were then committing the most shocking barbarities; the young and the old, men and children, and even women in a state of pregnancy, were all put indiscriminately to the sword. The Royalists were compelled to force the gates of the city, and make their escape, leaving 1000 men and officers killed, wounded and taken prisoners. Bolivar lost in this engagement 3 colonels, 7 captains, and about 400 non-commissioned officers and soldiers killed and wounded.

Gen. Bolivar with his remaining forces followed the flying enemy. At 5 o'clock in the morning of the 11th, the royal army was again attacked by gen. Arismendi at the head of 1800 men, 800 of whom were cavalry, by whom the royalists were literally cut to pieces.—They fled towards Cumana, with the whole patriotic force in full pursuit, and it is supposed that very few will reach that city in safety. On the 12th, gen. Bolivar by an express, ordered admiral Brian to be in readiness with the second division of his fleet, to intercept any of his enemies if they should attempt to escape by water, and to stop all supplies from that quarter, while he himself in the rear deprives them of all supplies from the country. The royalists have at Cumana, 1 sloop of war, 3 gun brigs and one schooner, not half manned—The second division of the patriotic navy consists of the Indian Lebre, of 14 12 pound carronades, and 1 long 12 pound travelling gun; the Decatur, mounting two long 18 pounders and four 12 pound carronades; the Diana, mounting five 9 pounders, long guns; a prize brig called the Republic, carrying 12 carronades of 12 pounds; the schooner Mary Ann, of 4 guns, with all the privateers under the flag of Venezuela, all well manned, and principally by Americans and French. The commanders were all Americans or Frenchmen.

FROM THE LONDON COURIER, DEC. 31.

LAW REPORT.

Court of King's Bench, December 20.

Jones v. Boyce.—This was an action brought by the butler of gen. Morgan, to recover damages from the proprietor of the Colchester stage coach, called the Eclipse for the loss of a leg, which the plaintiff was alledged to have sustained in consequence of the negligence of the defendant's servant, in the course of the passage from Brentwood, in Essex, to London.

The case appeared to be this:——The plaintiff was an outside passenger, and the coach, having changed horses at the Swan Inn, at Brentford, was proceeding on the journey to London, when the coupling rein of the leaders broke, and the near wheel horse having got one of his legs entangled in the traces, the whole four set off at full speed. The coachman, in order to stop the progress of the coach, reigned in the horses as well as he could, and succeeded in driving the vehicle gently in contact with a post by the road side, which completely arrested the career of the horses. The plaintiff and four other passengers in the hinder part of the coach, apprehending that they should be overturned, adopted the alternative of jumping into the road, and they all escaped unhurt, except the plaintiff, one of whose legs was so dreadfully fractured by the fall, as to render almost immediate amputation necessary.

It was proved, as a strong fact in the plaintiff's case, and not contradicted on the other side, that the coupling reign of the leading horses was in a complete state of decay, a circumstance which was the primary cause of the accident.—No blame, however, was imputed to the personal conduct of the coachman, who did every thing in his power to avoid the danger of being upset.

Lord Ellenborough charged the jury, that if they were satisfied that the defective state of the harness was the cause of the coach running against the post in question, and that the position of the coach at that time occasioned sufficient ground of apprehension in any reasonable person's mind, to make it necessary for self-preservation, that the plaintiff should jump off the coach, then the action was maintainable. It was necessary, in order to maintain the action, that the party should be thrown from the body of the coach; for if the person is placed in such a situation as to make a painful and dangerous choice of alternatives necessary, by casting himself from the coach, to avoid the impending peril of being overturned, and that position of things is induced by the misconduct of the persons to whom he has committed his safety, in such case, the action is maintainable for the consequences of such choice.

The jury found their verdict for the plaintiff. Damages, 300*l*.

THE ODD FAMILY.

In the reign of King William III. there lived at Ipswich in Suffolk, a family, which from the number of peculiarities belonging to it, was distinguished by the name of the Odd Family. Every event, remarkable good or bad, happened to this family in an odd year, or an odd day of the month—a every one of them had something odd i his or her person, manner and behaviour. The very letters of their Christian names always happened to be of an odd number. The husband's name was Peter, and the wife's was Rahab; they had seven children, all boys, viz.--Solomon, Roger, James, Matthew, Jonas, David, and Ezekiel. The husband had but one leg, and the wife but one arm. Solomon was born blind of his left eye, and Roger lost his right eye by accident. James had his left ear pulled off by a boy in a quarrel, and Matthew was born with only three fingers on his right hand. Jonas had a stump foot, and David was humpbacked;—all these, except David, were remarkably short, and Ezekiel was six feet two inches high at the age of nineteen. The stump-footed Jonas and the hump-backed David, got wives of fortune, but no girl would listen to the addresses of the rest. The husband's hair was black as jet, and the wife's as remarkably white, yet every one of the children had red hair. The husband had the peculiar misfortune of falling into a deep saw-pit, where he was starved to death in the year 1701, and the wife refusing all kind of sustenance, died in five days after him. In the year 1705, Ezekiel enlisted as a grenadier, and although he was afterwards wounded in twenty-three places, he recovered. Roger, James, Matthew, Jonas and David, died at different places, on the same day, in the year 1713, and Solomon and Ezekiel were drowned together in crossing the Thames, in the year 1723.

PITTSBURGH.

TUESDAY, APRIL 8, 1817.

"MEN OF PRINCIPLE,"

The following letter was written by Dr. Sutherland, physician of the Philadelphia Lazaretto, to his friend in the city. By some means, as yet unaccounted for, it was diverted from its proper channel and fell into the hands of honest John Binns, editor of the Democratic Press, who very honourably opened, read, and took several copies of it, one of which he transmitted to Gov. Snyder, in consequence of which, the Doctor was removed from office. It is a fine specimen of patriotism, and will tend to show what reliance may be placed on those who at present manage the helm of the state.

LAZARETTO, JUNE 27th 1816.

DEAR M.

When I received your letter last night, I immediately took a chair to my front door, and commenced reading it—I was much pleased with your notion of buying out Peacock, but the difficulty that will have to be encountered will not I think, be of a trivial nature, I may perhaps make the arrangement with Boileau, in relation to the adjutant generalship, but whether he would be willing to endorse a note, to raise the wind, is another question. I am told he is avaricious. However, on this point I would just say, that for the present nothing can be effected in relation to our scheme till Mr. Boileau returns from the state of New York, which will be in about 4 or 5 weeks. The truth is M'Coy, Boileau is but a child in politics, he is not half enough acquainted with the underhand work, that marks the bold and discerning politician. I will tell you who I think will embrace this scheme much sooner than Boileau. I mean Wm. Findlay. He is so full of schemes and notions, that he is literally running over with them. But there we cannot well go—We have unfurled the flag of discontent, and it would look cowardly to furl it up again, unless it should be thought better to surrender at discretion.

While I write this about Findlay do not suppose that I doubt Boileau—No I am far from doubting this man's honesty, but, I frankly confess I doubt his policy. When I see him I will read his heart. Findlay at this time stands the best chance of any man I know, if a few of us would become recruiting sergeants in his cause. Moreover he will become hostile to Binns, who is going down fast. You may think me a damned strange creature to be vacillating this way between Boileau and Findlay—as you and I are politicians, are all men of principle in proportion to our interest, I have written to you undisguisedly upon this matter. If you have time to come down with Hart in his stage some afternoon and have a long talk with me, you & I will understand each other more fully. I want to talk to you about our joining with Leib. I wish to know whether the democrats might not come in this way in the city, I know they would—I wish you would go on the ticket, at your leisure you could then make arrangements with Peacock, we would then be on the spot to join the man most likely to succeed.

I would like to see you before I see Dr. Leib. I know I shall see him before the election—I see there is no chance for my success in the N. Liberties, except it be through the assistance of old schoolism—Bussier, if he is rejected will quit the party, but by that time the oppposition, will have selected their candidate. We ought to watch them well now and be prepared for the worst. Remember me to all our family—tell my dear parents we are all well.

YOUR FRIEND

J. B. SUTHERLAND.

JOSEPH M'COY, Esq.

New Market, Philadelphia.

A case has occurred in New-York, which has induced its senate to introduce an act concerning the Shakers. One James Chapman had married Eunice Chapman, by whom he had three children; he then abandoned her, joining the society of Shakers in Neskauna, county of Albany, the children he took from her and concealed, he insisted that the marriage contract was annulled, and warned all persons against trusting her, as he would pay no debts of her contracting—This being upon the principles of that society, who hold that it is sinful for a member to hold any intercourse with those who are not members "without what they term a gift from their elders," and that all married persons who join them are therefore absolved from the marriage vows.

To arrest the propagation of principles "subversive of the peace and happiness of families and the order of society," the bill enacts, that Eunice Chapman is divorced from her husband, but that he shall not marry during her life time, and that any married person who hereafter attaches him or herself to the society of Shakers shall be considered as civilly dead, and his or her property disposed of as if such persons were really dead; &c.

According to recent survey, (says the Hartford Courant) the State of Connecticut contains a little upwards of four thousand eight hundred and twenty eight square miles, or about three millions and ninety thousand acres, including harbors, creeks, rivers, lakes, roads, &c. This quantity of land if laid in a square, the length of each side would be sixty-nine miles, one quarter, seventy-five rods and a few links of the chain. By the last census, the number of inhabitants in this state is two hundred sixty-one thousand, nine hundred and forty-two. On an equal distribution of land, among the inhabitants each individual would have eleven acres three quarters and seven rods. At this rate, each square mile would contain fifty-four inhabitants and a fraction.

In consequence of the evils arising from the cultivation of the rice lands contiguous to Savannah, in the wet mode most generally adopted, the people of Savannah, regarding the health of their city as of the first importance have agreed to pay the proprietors of those lands, 70,000 dollars as an inducement for them to cultivate their rice in the dry mode; by which means, Savannah, in the summer months, will be rendered much more healthy than heretofore.

The latest advices from Canton, represent the affairs between the Chinese and English all quiet, and that for the present there would be no difficulty.

FROM THE NEW-YORK GAZETTE, MARCH 26.

IMPORTANT.

Captain Selby, of the Gazette, informs, that on the 16th instant, the day he sailed from St. Jago de Cuba, he was boarded by com. Taylor, of the privateer brig Fourth of July, and was informed by the commodore, that the preceding day he spoke a British Packet, from England, the commander of which stated, that "all the south of France had revolted, and that the king and his family had been obliged to leave the country."

The natural question is, can this news be correct? We answer, that as far as capt. Selby's veracity is concerned, so far we know it is so. As to the probability of such an event, the reader will form his own opinion. There can be no doubt but that a Packet may have arrived with news two weeks later than any received in the U. States.

New-York, March 27.

"MURDER WILL OUT."

A man was arrested last week in Saratoga county, on a suspicion of being one of the murderers of Miss Hamilton, of Athens. The suspicion arose from some inadvertent expressions of the prisoner; and was subsequently confirmed, we understand, by his own voluntary confession; which also implicated another man living in Seneca, for whose apprehension a warrant has been issued and sent on.

Slave Trade.——With regard to this most infamous traffic, it is stated, that in the spring of last year there were nearly one hundred American vessels fitting out from Havanna, for the coast of Africa, with the intention of procuring slaves. I must believe that this statement is far beyond the truth: but it certainly cannot be denied that many of our depraved countrymen are constantly employed in this detestable barter. The frequent captures made by the English cruizers prove this incontestibly; and nothing could rescue the reputation of the whole country from this infamy, were it not the general satisfaction which is every where expressed when those out-casts of our soil are disappointed and defeated of their diabolical aim and profits.

Raleigh Min.

The Pharo-table.

Some years ago, a stranger, dressed in a plain citizens attire, took his seat at the Pharo-table at Aix-la-Chapelle, when the bank was proclaimed more than commonly rich. After being some little time in the common play of the table, he challenged the bank, and tossed his pocket book to the banker, that he might not question his faculties, in case he lost. The banker, surprised at the boldness of the adventurer; and no less at his ordinary appearance, at first hesitated to accept of the challenge; but on opening the book, and seeing bills to a prodigious amount, and on the stranger's sternly and repeatedly insisting on his compliance with the laws of the game, with much reluctance he prepared the cards for this great event.—The surprise was naturally great, and all eyes attentive to the trembling hands of the affrighted banker, who, while the stranger sat unruffled and unconcerned, turned up the card which decided his ruin and the other's success. The table of course was immediately broken up and the stranger, in triumph, with perfect coolness and serenity of features, turned to a person who stood at his elbow, to whom he gave orders for the charge of the money. Heavens! exclaimed an old infirm officer in the Austrian service, and who sat next him at the table, if I had the twentieth part of your success this night I should be the happiest man in the universe. If thou wouldst be this happy man, replied the stranger briskly, then thou shalt have it; and, without waiting his reply, disappeared from the room. Some little time afterwards, the entrance of a servant astonished the company, as much with the extraordinary generosity of the stranger, as with his peculiar good fortune, by presenting the Austrian officer with the twentieth part of the Pharo-bank: take this, sir, says the servant, my master requires no answer; and he suddenly left him without exchanging any other words. The next morning it was rumoured at Aix-la-Chapelle, that the King of Prussia had entered the town in disguise; and on recollection of his person, the town soon recognized him to be the successful stranger at the Pharo-table.

The other day, a captain of a vessel had a quantity of coals to go on board, and as a great number of them lay scattered about the wharf, he thought it would be better to get a rake, that he might more speedily collect them together; he went into a counting-house, and enquired of the merchant, whether he could have the loan of a rake for a few minutes? The merchant smiled, and looked significantly round at his clerks, said, I believe I have a number of them, but not one who will readily answer your purpose; the captain comprehending the pun, very wittily replied, I, think you are quite right, sir, for neither of them, I suppose, would wish to be "hauled over the coals" [Philad. pa]

AFRICAN ANTS.

These insects set forward sometimes in such multitudes, that the whole earth seems to be in motion. A corps of them attacked and covered an Elephant quietly feeding in a pasture. In eight hours nothing was to be seen on the spot, but the skeleton of that monstrous animal, neatly and completely picked. The business was done, and the enemy marched on after fresh prey. Such power has the smallest creatures acting in concert.

POETRY

FROM "AIRS OF PALESTINE."

By John Pierpont, Esq.

Summer's dun cloud, that slowly rising holds
The sweeping tempest in its rushing folds
Though o'er the ridges of its thundering breast,
The King of Terrors lifts his lightning crest;
Pleas'd we behold, when those dark folds we find.
Fring'd with the golden light, that glows behind
So, when one language bound the human race,
On Shinar's plain, round Babel's mighty base,
Gloomily rose the minister of wrath;
Dark was his frown, destructive was his path;
That tower was blasted by the touch of Heaven;
That bond was burst—that race asunder driven:
Yet round the Avenger's brow, that frown'd above,
Play'd Mercy's beams—the lambent light of Love.
All was not lost, though busy Discord flung
Repulsive accents from each jarring tongue;
All was not lost: for Love one tie had twin'd,
And Mercy dropp'd it, to connect mankind;
One tie, that winds, with soft and sweet controul,
Its silken fibres round the yielding soul:
Binds man to man, sooths Passion's wildest strife,
And through the masy labyrinths of life,
Supplies a faithful clue, to lead the lone
And weary wanderer to his Father's throne.

That tie is Musick. How supreme her sway!
How lovely is the Power that all obey!
Dumb matter trembles at her thrilling shock;
Her voice is echoed by the desert rock:
For her, the asp withholds the sting of death,
And bares his fangs but to inhale her breath;
The lordly lion leaves his lonely lair,
And crouching, listens when he treads the air;
And man, by wilder impulse driven to ill,
Is tamed, and led by this Enchantress still.
Who ne'er has felt her hand assuasive steal
Along his heart—that heart will never feel.

DIED—On Thursday Evening last, Miss SUSAN ERNEST, eldest daughter of Mrs. Catherine Ernest of this city.

It is with deep regret that we record the premature loss of this excellent and truly amiable young lady, which carries affliction to the bosom of a numerous family and is lamented by a wide circle of friends.

Valuable Real estate for Sale.

PURSUANT to the last Will and Testameny of the late Col. RICHARD BROWN, deceased

I NOW OFFER FOR SALE,

The Farm on which he resided,

On the Ohio River, in Holliday's Cove, in Brook County, Virginia.

This Estate consists of about 700 Acres of Land, 250 of which is a rich Island, the remainder principally second bottom and upland; that part of the upland which is not tillable, is covered with timber suitable for furnishing the Island and tillable part with fencing and building timber. There is between 150 and 200 acres cleared and under cultivation, a suitable proportion of which in good meadow land. The buildings consist in two log dwelling houses and a log barn with under story of stone. It is well supplied with very fise springs of good water.

The situation of this property on the Ohio River, five miles from the flourishing Town of Steubenville, and in the neighbourhood of several Merchant Mills, Iron Works, &c. renders it a desirable object to a person who would wish to farm extensively, as he would probably at all times find a good market at his door for the produce of his farm. A part of the purchase will be required in hand, and for the remainder a reasonable credit will be given.

For the prevention and cure of Bilious and Malignant Fevers.

The proprietor has every possible reason that an result from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these pills, taken once in every two weeks, during the prevalence of our bilious fevers prove an infallible preventative; and further, that in the earlier stages of those disa their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance—they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

In sickly times or places, a dose should be taken every fortnight, and if there is reason to apprehend personal danger, it may be taken once a week.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

HAMILTON'S
Worm Destroying Lozenges.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of a similar title so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary, a particular excellence of this remedy is, its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent and is so mild in its operation, that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady, or the tenderest infant of a week old, should no worms exist in the body; but will, without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach or bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production o worms, and many other fatal disorders.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent the "vomiting and purging of children," a dreadful disorder which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and the restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaints Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness, having a pleasing appearance and an agreeable taste.

HAMILTON'S
Grand Restorative,

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine fo the speedy relief and permanent cure of

Nervous Disorders
